Commission Data Request 12-4

Request:

Please identify how the company proposes to recover the lost revenue resulting from Clariant's move from rate G-62 to rate G-32.

Response:

The Company will include a request to recover lost revenue incurred from billings to Clariant as part of the Company's annual retail reconciliation filing to be submitted in January 2010.

Commission Data Request 12-6

Request:

Please update the response to Commission Record Request 42 to include columns that indicate the total number of shares on which dividends were paid as well as total dollars of dividends paid.

Response:

The requested update to Commission Record Request 42 is provided below.

Year	Dividends ($M)	# Shares (M)	Div./Share (Cents)
2000	317	1,420	22

Commission Data Request 12-8

Request:

The response to Commission Record Request 17, uses the terms “residual costs” and “final tasks” to describe the $74,000 of rate year expense associated with the Customer Information System that is no longer in use in Rhode Island. What evidence is there to indicate that these costs continued into the interim year and will continue into the rate year?

Response:

As indicated in the response to Commission Record Request 17, the majority of the $74,000 pertains to internal labor and related benefits and payroll taxes associated with National Grid employees who remain at the Company. Following the conversion to the Customer Service System (CSS) in January 2008, the employees performed tasks required under Sarbanes Oxley to fully close out the Customer Information System (CIS). Once this work was completed, the employees were simply redeployed to other assignments within the company. Because they remain National Grid employees, their salaries and associated benefits are properly included in the calculation of the rate-year revenue requirement.

Request:

With regard to the Company's proposed debt issuances of up to $840 million, why did the Company delay issuing debt until such time that there is a need to issue such a large amount of debt? In other words, why did the Company not issue debt earlier and in smaller increments?

Response:

Until recently, the Company did not have a need to issue long-term debt. Over the last several years the Company was able to rely on its internally generated cash and, when necessary, relatively inexpensive and small amounts of short-term debt to pay down maturing debt and fund capital expenditures. For example, in the five years prior to the 2008 test year, the Company's short-term debt balance averaged approximately $66 million at year-end compared to $219 million at year-end 2008. Although the Company's short-term debt is still quite inexpensive (the current cost of its short-term debt is 0.21%), the balance has grown to point where it is now necessary to term out this debt to avoid the risk that the cost of this debt will become more volatile and increase significantly in the future as the Federal Reserve phases out the extraordinary actions it has taken to mitigate the financial crisis.

In addition, since the Company has been operating under a five year rate agreement that froze distribution rates and set an imputed capital structure, customers were not affected by the increase in the Company's common equity ratio that resulted from the use of its internally generated cash to fund capital expenditures and pay down debt instead of paying dividends. Now that new distribution rates are being established in this proceeding, it is an appropriate time for the Company to issue the new long-term debt that is needed to achieve a more cost-efficient capital structure.

Commission Data Request 12-11

Request:

Please provide the company's definition of high cost debt.

Response:

From the Company's perspective, "high cost" debt is existing debt that has an interest rate that is substantially higher than the interest rate that could be obtained currently on new debt having the same terms, maturity and credit rating.

Commission Data Request 12-12

Request:

Please refer to RIDPUC Docket D-09-49, Mr. Kahal's Settlement Testimony dated November 18, 2009. On page 5, he indicates that Grid informed him that the Company's high cost outstanding debt has "make whole provisions" that would make early redemption uneconomical. Please provide for each piece of high cost debt currently outstanding:

1. The issuance date.
2. The maturity date
3. The current outstanding balance.
4. The interest rate.
5. The annual interest cost.

Response:

The requested information pertaining to the Company's outstanding debt that has "make whole provisions" is provided in the table below.

Commission Record Request No. 34

Request:

Please refer to the Company's response to Commission Data Request 2-23, part (a). Who paid the amount outstanding, identified as $559,169? Did National Grid put a lien on the property to ensure that it would receive some type of a payment if something happened to the property?

Response:

The Company has not received any payments on this account since its charge off. The Company did not place a lien or judgment on the property at the time of charge off in September, 2008 because information known to the Company indicated that the lien process would be a futile exercise, and therefore did not warrant the expenditure of resources that would be necessary to obtain a lien. Specifically, the Company's collection agency handling the account (ACS) performed extensive research and analysis of the account, both on the company its owners/stakeholders. ACS advised the Company that, after conducting research through contact with the customer, skip tracing, credit reports and business reports, the account was uncollectible and not worthy of a suit. The information obtained by ACS showed that the customer was liquidating all assets to satisfy debts to a secured creditor in the amount of $16 million. In fact, information obtained by ACS from various business reports showed that there are 26 secured UCC liens on the property and equipment. Based on this information, it was apparent that it was highly unlikely that the Company would obtain any recovery for an unsecured obligation. Since the process to obtain a lien is time-consuming and expensive, the Company determined that the futility of the outcome made the lien process in advisable.

Division Record Request No. 8

Request:

What is the ratio of field visits made during 2008 as a percentage of total customers with past due balances during 2008?

Response:

Please see Attachment RR-DIV-8 for the requested information.
