Compound Meter Fire Service Investigation

Kent County Water Authority

Docket 4611

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT PARAGRAPH 24d

COMPLIANCE FILING FEBRUARY 7, 2017

Abstract

A requirement of the settlement agreement in Docket 4611 was to conduct an investigation as to whether compound meters are supporting private fire protection service and report these findings to the Division and Commission by April 1, 2017

Travel of the Investigation

The investigation included review of billing records, large meter program records, several computer records, Geographic Information system (GIS) plans, historic design plans, as-built drawings and numerous site visits in confirming the validity of the record files and piping configurations at the properties. This investigation also looked at non-metered fire lines and single register large 3 inch and above metered services. A total of 415 service connections were reviewed in conjunction with this investigation.

Compound Meter Services

262¹ Compound meters ranging in size from 2 to 10 inch are in service to fulfill a variety public water needs based on occupancy requirements relative to domestic flow and National Fire Protection Agency (NFPA) fire requirements. Compound meters facilitate legislative mandates relative to the application of metering of 100% of water used. These meters have been designated to be read on either a monthly or quarterly basis depending on volume. These accounts are billed the standard service charge based on connection size and consumption registered during the billing period. The results of the detailed investigation are enumerated below:

- 27 compound meter services strictly provide domestic service requirements of the property occupancy. The compound meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume and low flow accuracy during periods of low flow.

¹ Docket 4611 Division date request 1-5(a) response stated 234 customers with compound meters. This is corrected to 262. See attached Exhibit 1 correction to compound meters in KCWA

- 122 compound meter services provide domestic and fire suppression sprinkler service requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district.
- 88 compound meters service provide domestic, fire suppression sprinkler and fire hydrant service requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district.
- 19 compound meter services provide domestic and fire hydrant service requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district.
- 2 compound meter services provide fire suppression sprinkler and fire hydrant service requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district.
- 3 compound meters service provide fire suppression sprinkler service requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district.
- 1 compound meter service provides fire hydrant service requirements for the East Greenwich Fire Department training facility. This facility is used to train fire department personnel in the operation of fire department apparatus using a standard hydrant.

Single Register Large Meter Services

23 Single register large three inch and above metered services fulfill a variety public water needs based on occupancy requirements relative to domestic flow and era approved fire protection requirements. Current NFPA standards require meters used in fire service to be a “listed” device reliable for its intended purpose acceptable to the AHJ. The meters identified in this section may or may not conform to the current NFPA standards. Single register metered services help to afford compliance with legislative mandates relative to the application of metering of 100% of water used although low flow accuracy standards are a contributing factor relative to incalculable water loss. These meters have been designated to be read on either a monthly or quarterly basis depending on volume. These accounts are billed the standard service charge based on connection size and consumption registered during the billing period. The results of the investigation are enumerated below:

- 4 single register large metered services strictly provide domestic service requirements of the property occupancy. The meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume and low flow uses. By design the accuracy of large single register meters is significantly diminished during periods of low flow in comparison to the accuracy of compound register meters.
- 11 single register large metered services provide domestic and hydrant service requirements of the property occupancy. The meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume and low flow uses. By design the accuracy of large single register meters is significantly diminished during periods of low flow in comparison to the accuracy of compound register meters.
- 2 single register large metered services provide domestic, hydrant and fire suppression sprinkler service requirements of the property occupancy. The meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume and low flow uses. By design the accuracy of large single register meters is significantly diminished during periods of low flow in comparison to the accuracy of compound register meters.

- 1 single register large metered service provides domestic and fire suppression sprinkler service requirements of the property occupancy. The meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume and low flow uses. By design the accuracy of large single register meters is significantly diminished during periods of low flow in comparison to the accuracy of compound register meters.
- 4 single register large metered services strictly provide fire sprinkler service requirements of the property occupancy. Some of these services have been inactivated at the request of the property owners due to vacancy or requirements being currently met by other means. The meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume fire suppression and low flow NFPA testing requirements. By design the accuracy of large single register meters is significantly diminished during periods of low flow in comparison to the accuracy of compound register meters.
- 1 single register large metered service provides hydrant and fire sprinkler service requirements of the property occupancy. The meter considerations at these properties include the need to service both high volume fire suppression, low flow NFPA testing requirements and infrastructure flushing uses. By design the accuracy of large single register meters is significantly diminished during periods of low flow in comparison to the accuracy of compound register meters.

The investigation revealed 5 single register or non-compound metered fire lines. 4 of these metered services provide fire sprinkler service and 1 provides sprinkler and hydrant service. Meters are read quarterly. Consumption has been observed registered on the active meters. These accounts are billed the standard service charge and for consumption registered during the billing period.

Non-metered Fire Lines

130 non-metered fire lines ranging between 4 to 12 inch are in service to fulfill a variety fire supply requirements based on the occupancy use and facility construction relative to NFPA fire protection requirements as evaluated and approved by the fire department AHJ to fulfill the fire suppression needs and the fire departments needs in their strategic approach to fire response at these properties. The non-metered fire services are comprised of relatively older mill or commercial properties that were in existence previous to Kent County Water Authority and legislative requirements (46-15.3-5.1 (2)(D)(iv)) requiring metering of 100% of water used. These services are billed quarterly based on the approved fire service tariff. The results of this investigation are enumerated below:

- 105 non-metered fire services provide fire suppression sprinkler supply requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district. Water use associated with fulfilling NFPA testing and AWWA infrastructure flushing requirements is incalculable and goes unaccounted for because of the absence of a meter.
- 19 non-metered fire services provide fire suppression sprinkler supply and fire hydrant flow requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district. Water use associated with fulfilling NFPA testing and AWWA infrastructure flushing requirements is incalculable and goes unaccounted for because of the absence of a meter.
- 6 non-metered fire services provide fire hydrant flow requirements of the property based on NFPA standards as evaluated and approved by the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) within the prevailing fire department district. Water use associated with fulfilling NFPA testing and AWWA infrastructure flushing requirements is incalculable and goes unaccounted for because of the absence of a meter.

Non-metered Fire Service Retrofit

Non-metered fire service connections present a source of incalculable water loss that directly equates to revenue loss that must be recovered in the tariff rate applied across the general customer base. This concern is further exemplified by the consumption records of the single register metered fire lines. For example one of the metered fire service shows an average consumption charge over an 18 quarter period that equates to $200 a quarter water use. Retrofitting non-metered fire line service connections properties with compound metering is a consideration factor in any application for change in water service requirements, occupancy changes and cross connection control containment compliance installation pursuant to requirements for the protection of the public water system outlined in the provisions of RIGL 46-13-22 and RIDOH Cross Connection Control regulatory requirements. In these instances both domestic and fire service requirements are combined in a single service connection. This places the cost of water use in the perpetual maintenance of the fire suppression and infrastructure back on the property that is using the water. This metering configuration also eliminates concerns with water loss through leaks in the infrastructure or illegal connections (RIGL 11-35-7) that may be present or inadvertently installed within these properties.

Analogous to other public water systems the Kent County Water Authority construction dates back over one hundred years. The variety of service connection appurtenances and configurations are reflective of the transformation in regulatory and drinking water standards to best protect the interest of the consumer and public water system. The ultimate goal is to gradually bring all system and consumer components into compliance with current regulatory requirements as necessitated in the protection of public health and/or as opportunities present themselves to ensure the costs of service are appropriately applied to actual customer benefiting from such service. The Commission should take judicial notice of the decision in Division docket D-14-22 in consideration of the overall impacts and implications non-metered fire lines present to both the public water system and the broad cost implications it presents across the customer base.
