THE OFFICE OF ENERGY RESOURCES' RESPONSE TO THE COMMISSION'S SECOND SET OF DATA REQUESTS

2-1. Does OER have data on how mobile homes heat? If so, to the extent available, please provide the number of mobile home parks in Rhode Island, the number of units, the percentage that heat with each of the applicable fuels, and the associated geographic location.

Response: The Office of Energy Resources (“OER”) does not possess data on how mobile homes heat.

2-2. What is the status of OER’s outreach efforts to the low-income community through its work with the EERMC?

Response: OER has been working with the Energy Efficiency and Resource Management Council (“EERMC”) to ensure energy efficiency (“EE”) programs are readily available to all customers. OER was pleased to see that no income-eligible services were cut or scaled back due to EE program budget constraints in 2018. OER, in coordination with the EERMC, is also confident that serving more income-eligible customers will remain a top priority in the upcoming 2019 annual EE plan. In coordination with the EERMC, OER is striving to enhance relationships with Rhode Island Housing and local community development corporations (“CDCs”) to improve income-eligible service conduits long-term.
