Request:

Referencing Bates page 90, how is the Company securing the Bring-Your-Own-Device program?

Response:

As part of the Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) program, the National Grid Vendor Assurance process was followed. This process evaluates vendors to ensure that sufficient security and privacy protections exist for services provided on behalf of the company. National Grid evaluated the Demand Response Management System provider on a variety of security requirements and ensured that the Demand Response Management System had the proper security controls in place to secure any customer data stored, processed, and transmitted as part of the Bring Your Own Device program.
